Indictment in West Village sexual attack

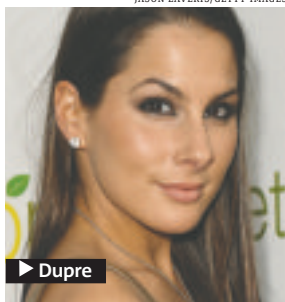

A grand jury indicted a man yesterday for rape after he pretended to be in a Neighborhood Watch program and attacked a woman. Prosecutors say Ivan Ramos, 22, approached a 29-year-old woman at 6 a.m. on April 15 in the West Village. She asked him to take her to the nearest police precinct, but instead he took her into a Perry Street stairwell and raped her, police said. ● METRO/AB

Spitzer escort opens lingerie store in NJ

The woman at the center of the Eliot Spitzer high-priced hooker scandal has set her sights on a different kind of entrepreneurship.

Four years after her exposure as the former New York governor's favorite escort, Ashley Dupre has set up shop in New Jersey's Red Bank community in the form of a lingerie and swim suit shop called Femme by Ashley. The woman who was once at the center of attention for her sexy, scandalous lifestyle is now peddling racy little numbers to other women, inspiring them to embrace their own sexuality.

The former "Girls Gone Wild" star seems to have come a long way from her days in the spotlight. Now, Dupre is looking to fly below the radar as she concentrates on her transition from sex to retail.

"I made a bunch of mistakes when I was younger, and I feel like, for the first time in my life, I'm growing into an adult," Dupre, now 27, said.

Dupre said she settled on the upscale downtown of Red Bank as the location for her boutique after visiting the area frequently during her childhood in Wall Township.

Bike beats out car, even subway in race to work

► Which can get you to work faster: A bike, the subway or a car? ► Bike wins by a long shot in commuter race yesterday ► One Flavorpill worker shaved more than 10 minutes off a rush-hour commute to his SoHo office

A man riding a bike eclipsed the time it took to commute to work via subway yesterday — and that's something one group hopes gets you on two wheels tomorrow morning.

Yesterday, Transportation Alternatives sponsored a race from Williamsburg to SoHo to see if it was quicker to arrive by train, four wheels or two wheels.

Three employees of culture guide Flavorpill volunteered to race each other by bike, subway and car from Brooklyn to Flavorpill's Manhattan offices.

Starting on North 12th Street in Williamsburg, they traveled to Broadway and Houston Street during morning rush hour.

Nate Hageman, riding the bike across the Williamsburg Bridge, won by a landslide, arriving in just 15 minutes.

The subway rider arrived in 26 minutes, and the driver in 41 minutes — and only after shelling out $37.17 for gas and an all-day parking slot.

"If you want to get where you need to go with the least amount of frustration, bicycling is for you," Transportation Alternatives director Paul Steely White said. "Today's results highlight why more and more New Yorkers are choosing to get to work on two wheels; it's fun and efficient."

One New Yorker, Daniel Hayman, 27, said his commute from Brooklyn into his Lower Manhattan office is roughly 25 minutes, whether by subway or bike.

But, he noted, "The bike is always there when I want it, though. The train, not so much."

The race highlighted National Bike to Work Day, which is tomorrow.

portation Alternatives will have free iced coffee and Cliff bars for bikers pedaling into Manhattan tomorrow.

Judge grants class-action status in lawsuit against city's stop-and-frisk policy

A federal judge granted class-action certification yesterday for a groundbreaking lawsuit that claims the NYPD's controversial stop-and-frisk policies are unconstitutional.

Floyd et al. v. City of New York, et al. challenges the NYPD's use of stop-and-frisk as racial profiling and a violation of the 14th Amendment. The ruling by U.S. District Judge Shira Scheindlin will allow people who have been stopped and frisked to serve as plaintiffs in the suit.

"Suspicionless stops should never occur," Scheindlin said in her decision yesterday. "Deendants' cavalier attitude towards the prospect of a 'wide-spread practice of suspicionless stops' displays a deeply troubling apathy towards New Yorkers' most fundamental constitutional rights."

The NYPD conducted 685,724 stops and searches in 2011. That is a 600 percent increase since 2002, according to information provided to the Center for Constitutional Rights by the NYPD.

2002 is also the same year Mayor Michael Bloomberg appointed Ray Kelly as the city's police commissioner.

Scheindlin said she believes the NYPD has a "policy of establishing performance standards and demanding increased levels of stops and frisks."

Kelly has defended the NYPD's stop-and-frisk practices, crediting them with a decrease in violence in historically crime-ridden neighborhoods.

But he stayed mum on the issue of the lawsuit when asked yesterday morning. Kelly and New York Attorney General Eric Schneiderman were both asked about the suit's class-action status at an unrelated press conference.

Both declined to comment, and Schneiderman added that his office is not involved in any stop-and-frisk legal issues.

Murder down as stop and frisks are up

According to the latest police statistics, murders are down this year more than 20 percent compared to a year ago.

Police Commissioner Ray Kelly credited much of the drop to the increased use of stop-and-frisk tactics.

"If history is a guide, the vast majority of those lives saved were young men of color," Kelly said. "Last year, 96 percent of all shooting victims in New York were black or Hispanic, as were over 90 percent of murder victims." ● METRO/CB

Luxury car ring thieves 'stalked' NYC car owners

► 14 arrested in international ring that targeted Brooklyn neighborhoods, particularly Williamsburg ► Took car requests that were 'stolen to order' ► Nearly 200 cars stolen and then shipped to Africa, where they were sold

Thieves in an international luxury car ring "stalked" New Yorkers' cars street by street, block by block, Police Commissioner Ray Kelly and Attorney General Eric Schneiderman said yesterday.

They announced that 14 people were arrested in a ring that involved people based in Florida, New Jersey, Illinois and Africa. Those arrested could face up to life in prison, Schneiderman said.

Kelly said that buyers in Africa would detail the make and model of a car they wanted — even requesting details down to accessories, he said.

"These were not random thefts," Kelly said. "The cars were stolen to order."

They targeted Brooklyn neighborhoods, he said, particularly Williamsburg. The thieves would walk the streets until they found the exact make and model they were searching for.

In the process, they would "stalk" the owners, Schneiderman said, tracking their movements so as not to lose the car.

In one Brooklyn incident, a mother dropped off her child at school, only to return home to find the car gone.

"They were essentially stalking the people whose cars they wanted," Schneiderman said.

In total, they took about 180 cars, Kelly said. Police have recovered 29, including four that were shown to reporters yesterday morning, now parked outside One Police Plaza. The cars would be sold to a dealer for about $10,000 to $12,000, who would then ship them to buyers in Africa at triple that price, Kelly said.

Car thefts are down 13 percent this year from last year, 2,700 so far, and down 95 percent from 1990, Kelly said.

Sources say Apple making iPhone with bigger screen

JUSTIN SULLIVAN/GETTY IMAGES

► Apple CEO Tim Cook

Apple Inc. plans to use a larger screen on the next-generation iPhone and has begun to place orders for the new displays from suppliers in South Korea and Japan, people familiar with the situation said yesterday.

The new iPhone screens will measure 4 inches from corner to corner, one source said. That would represent a roughly 30 percent increase in viewing area, assuming Apple keeps other dimensions proportional. Apple has used a 3.5-inch screen since introducing the iPhone in 2007.

Early production of the new screens has begun at three suppliers: Korea's LG Display Co. Ltd., Sharp Corp. and Japan Display Inc., a Japanese government-brokered merger combining the screen production of three companies.

Apple's decision to equip the next iPhone with a larger viewing screen represents part of a competitive response to Samsung's new Galaxy.

Samsung unveiled its top-of-the line Galaxy smartphone with a 4.8-inch touch screen and a faster processor earlier this month.

With consumers becoming more and more comfortable using smartphones for tasks they once performed on laptops, like watching video, other smartphone manufacturers have also moved toward bigger displays.

Science Unveils New Aloe Cure® for Stomach and Digestion Problems

Doctors report new aloe-vera "cocktail" delivers instant relief to people who suffer from bouts of heartburn, acid-reflux, constipation, gas, bloating, diarrhea, and other stomach nightmares...

By Damian Wexler, Freelance health reporter

"Sometimes you'll give anything just to make it stop!"... says Dr. Santiago Rodriguez about digestive distress. He ought to know. After all, he's a world-renowned expert on medicinal botany.

"You can see the tortured look on people's faces as they talk about the scorching burn of stomach acid. Or being so constipated you almost pass out from the pain." And there's nothing worse than being "kept prisoner to your bathroom" because of chronic diarrhea.

It's a nightmare for people who suffer from it. But now, your stomach problems could be over. And the secret is in the healing aloe plant.

FINALLY THERE'S HOPE...

At first, the thought of drinking Aloe vera might make some people back away. But in fact, this delicious "digestion cocktail" is doing amazing things for people who suffer with stomach problems --- even if they've had them for years. Here's how it works...

Is it Worth the Risk? FDA WARNING!

Clinically Tested: 2oz. of AloeCure® provides a reduction in the acidic concentration in the stomach by 10 times!!

STOMACH AGONY

Your stomach naturally produces acid so strong, it can dissolve an aluminum spoon in just 30 minutes! And when excess acid escapes into your esophagus, throat and stomach lining... It unleashes the scorching pain of acid reflux, heartburn, ulcers and more misery. Add the problems of stress, and "all hell breaks loose."

Dr. Rodriguez explains... the "AloeCure®" can work genuine miracles. It buffers high acid levels with amazing speed. So your stomach feels completely at ease just moments after drinking it." In fact, it could wipe out stomach pain, discomfort, and frantic runs to the bathroom.

UNTIL NOW, LITTLE COULD BE DONE...

But "AloeCure®" can help virtually anyone. Even people with chronic stomach pain can feel better right away," says Dr. Rodriguez. And what's really exciting is "AloeCure®" aids in keeping your digestive tract healthy, so intestinal distress stops coming back.

DIGESTION DEFENDER #1: BALANCES STOMACH ACID

Your first line of defense is calcium malate. This natural acid buffer instantly sends stomach acid levels plunging. And holds acid levels down so they don't return!

Dr. Santiago Rodriguez, Ph.D., world-famous research chemist

DIGESTION DEFENDER #2: INSTANT, SOOTHING RELIEF

AloeCure® is brimming with polysaccharides, this "wonder" compound that gently coats the throat, esophagus and stomach, carrying instant relief to cells scorched by excess acid.

HERE'S WHAT DOCTORS ARE SAYING!

AloeCure® is backed by important scientific studies that confirm... aloe calms stomach acid and allows your body to heal itself.

Dr. Liza Leal, M.D. says, "That's why I recommend it to patients who suffer from bouts of heartburn, acid reflux, ulcers, and irritable bowel syndrome."

Dr. Santiago Rodriguez agrees. "Just two ounces of AloeCure® reduces the acids in your stomach by ten times."

Francisco DeWeever, a Certified Nutritional Microscopist, "My patients report their IBS, Crohn's-Colitis, Constipation, Acid Reflux and a host of other digestive problems have all but disappeared."

USERS ARE THRILLED!

"All the problems I had with my stomach are gone. Completely gone."

-Phillip Brown; Machinist

"AloeCure® helped with my bloating, my digestion, even my sleep. I can really see a big difference."

-Florence Vazquez, Caregiver

"I can eat what I want and not worry about sitting up all night with heartburn because of it."

Facebook IPO triggers retail investor craze

LEON NEAL/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

► Facebook is going public after accumulating almost a billion users and nearly $4 billion in annual revenue.

$104B

Many wealth managers are advising their clients to avoid Facebook, pointing to a sky-high valuation of up to $104 billion set by the IPO, and potentially much higher once it starts trading.

If "Facebook For Dummies" helped you find friends and post pictures on the world's No. 1 online social network, then consider "Facebook IPO Confidential," which purports to teach you "How To Get Rich With The IPO Of The Century."

The e-book is one of about eight self-help manuals that appear to have sprung up overnight to try to capitalize on the frenzy surrounding Silicon Valley's biggest initial public offering.

With other titles such as "The Facebook IPO Pitch: Are You In?" and "How To Invest

In Facebook," these books are far from best-sellers. But, along with countless online forums and news articles about the IPO, they underscore the desire of ordinary people — many of whom have never invested in stocks before — to get in on the $15.2 billion share sale.

"If you can't invent Facebook, the next best bragging rights would be to say that you had invested in the social media phenom when it was a dorm room project. If not then, perhaps the IPO," Nancy Miller wrote in a guide titled "The Facebook IPO Primer."

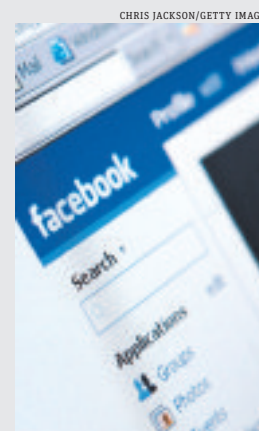

New shareholders will have little influence, as nearly 56 percent of voting shares will be in the hands of one person, Chief Executive Mark Zuckerberg. REUTERS

Facebook boosts IPO size by 25 percent, could top $16B

Facebook increased the size of its initial public offering by almost 25 percent, and could raise as much as $16 billion as strong investor demand for a share of the No. 1 social network trumps debate about its long-term potential to make money.

Facebook, founded eight years ago by Mark Zuckerberg in a Harvard dorm room, said yesterday it will add about 84 million shares to its IPO, floating about 421 million shares in an offering expected to be priced today.

The additional shares will be sold by early investors including PayPal co-founder Peter Thiel, Accel Partners' James Breyer and investment manager Tiger Global Management, the company said in a filing.

The company itself has not increased the number of shares it will sell. REUTERS

Facebook's Saverin may save $67M on US tax bill

Facebook Inc. co-founder Eduardo Saverin will save at least $67 million in federal income taxes by dropping U.S. citizenship, according to a Bloomberg analysis of the company's stock price. Those savings will keep growing if Facebook's shares increase. Saverin renounced his citizenship around September and he lives in Singapore, according to his spokesman, Tom Goodman. BLOOMBERG

President Barack Obama and former Mass. Gov. Mitt Romney are currently working to sharpen the contrasts of their respective personalities, highlighting the differences among their fundamental beliefs and political styles. Romney attacked Obama over the economy on Tuesday, criticizing the president for lighting a "prairie fire of debt." Vice President Joe Biden called attention to what he called "Romney economics" yesterday, accusing the conservative candidate of wanting to help his rich buddies at the expense of working Americans. Differences noted, the politicians do share at least one common thread, according to an ABC News-Washington Post poll released yesterday: Neither can claim majority support for their major platform goals.

Take Romney's proposal to lower individual income tax rates by 20 percent. This populist plan scored only 48 percent favorability, compared with 39 percent unfavorability. (Could it be because Romney's easy promise of tax reduction flies in the face of his party's clear goal of deficit reduction? "It's just not doable under any conceivable, realistic scenario," says Martin Sullivan, contributing editor at Virginia's Tax Analysts.)

We're not going to shift the burden from middle-income people to higher-income people," Romney said in an April interview, drawing a distinction with Obama, who has campaigned on economic "fairness" by saying the rich should pay their "fair share." Yet taxpayers seem unconvinced.

Then there's Obama's health care reform law, but the fierce Republican opposition to it may be cleared up on its own in June if the Supreme Court finds its individual mandate unconstitutional. Regardless, according to the ABC-WaPo poll, support for political repeal of the law is even: Forty percent favor such action, and 40 percent oppose. Interestingly, independents seem conflicted on the issue. Of these middle-ground voters, just 33 percent are in favor of Romney's promise to repeal and replace, while 47 percent rate it unfavorably.

A poll from last week showed Obama lagging below 50 percent on a bunch of his priorities: the auto bailout, financial regulation and stimulus spending. Still more polls have shown the Obama lead narrowing, or Romney overtaking him, as the bruising Republican primary fades from memory.

Ad buys tell the story of what's to come. The Obama team revealed a $25 million push in battleground states last week; as if in response, conservative group Crossroads GPS announced a $25 million buy of their own.

There are those who claim to know which candidate will win; they're wrong, they don't know a thing. Barring any surprises, the next president of the United States of America may well be decided by a multimillion-dollar barrage of negative ads.

THE WORD

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip @monicaatmetro monica.weymouth@metro.us

Cyrus, forgive us

► Once abandoned, Happy is now living the good life with Miley Cyrus.

It seems we owe Miley Cyrus an apology. While we were rooting against her as rumors circled that she might land a spot at the "X Factor" judges table, she was busy being an adult with a real life and rescuing dogs.

Earlier this month, the starlet brought home Happy, a beagle mix who was left outside a Wal-Mart, and over the week-end she added a fifth rescue pup, Mary Jane, to her collection.

"Meet the newest addition to our family," Cyrus tweeted. "I love rescuing."

And apparently, Cyrus' dogs live — and sleep — pretty comfortably. "As all my dogs jumped on my face the first words out of my mouth this morning ... 'I am living my dream life,'" she tweeted later.

Miley, we have to admit, we seriously underestimated your idea of a dreamy morning with Mary Jane. Consider this your summer get-out-of-the-gossip-column-free pass — and tell your girl Lindsay about our limited-time deal.

She's talkin' pedicures on her toes

We've grown to love our girl Ke$ha's straight-off-the-floor look, but it's nice to see she can clean up when she wants to. The singer stopped by the BMI Pop Awards in Beverly Hills on Tuesday night with clean hair, no trace of second-day glitter and a purse too small for her bottle of Jack.

J.Lo's a wanted woman

As reports swirl that Jennifer Lopez isn't interested in a third season of "American Idol," executive producer Nigel Lythgoe is hoping to win her over. "I know how much she loves doing the show and how much she cares for the kids," he tells TMZ. "We want her back. I want her back."

Nice start, Nigel, but you're going to have to do better — this lady is used to the grovel, and we suspect she enjoys it.

Smart move, Thornton

The way Billy Bob Thornton tells it, there's no hard feelings between him and ex-wife Angelina Jolie.

"We had a great marriage, and I chickened out because I didn't feel good enough," the actor admitted on an interview with "Nightline" that aired last night. "That's all that happened. It was no big deal, we never hated each other."

If Jolie still had a vial of our blood, we'd say the same thing.

The feed ...

► Checking in with some of Hollywood's biggest names to see what they've been up to — in their own words, in 140 characters or fewer.

Today, Dax Shepard is drinking alone and Kristen Bell needs a dictionary @daxshepard1: I can't relate to people in their 20's with pets. I was way too selfish for that business. Dogs weren't allowed in bars back then.

@IMKristenBell: when did we change "Input" to "Input"? Wait....has it ALWAYS been "input"?!!

SPORTY STYLE

► Sports apparel has shaken off the social stigma ► Now's the time to limber up for summer in this season's most chilled-out trend

The Olympic buzz clearly got designers thinking about how they could ramp up the sportswear cool factor for spring/summer '12. Of course, the ultimate spectacle would be seeing athletes competing in the shimmering looks of Givenchy and honored with Vivienne Westwood's Grecian laurel wreath. But alas, that's not the case. However, there are a number of designs that vault the divide between fashionable whimsy and trackside readiness. Take for instance, the diffusion line Kidda, by the emerging menswear designer Christopher Shannon, which is both progressive and practical — a rare thing, indeed.

We take a look at the pieces that'll work as part of a pared-down sporty wardrobe.

10 Reasons to hit the movies this weekend

2 'Battleship'

In this adaptation of the board game, aliens invade from the sea. And if that doesn't float your boat, there's always Rihanna, Taylor Kitsch, Alexander Skarsgard and Brooklyn Decker to stare at.

3 'What to Expect When You're Expecting'

Based on the how-to book of the same name, this comedy is packed with marquee names: Jennifer Lopez, Cameron Diaz, Elizabeth Banks, Matthew Morrison and Brooklyn Decker, again.

4 'Dark Shadows'

Tim Burton reimagines the 1960s soap opera in which a vampire from the 1700s awakens in 1972. He seeks out his dysfunctional relatives to restore his recently diminished family name in the small town

Must-see

Sci-fi master-in-chief Joss Whedon directs a bevy of big stars as seven Marvel heroes join forces to conquer the evil Loki.

TV watch list

LEWIS JACOBS/NBC

Is that Evil Abed (Danny Pudi)? What time line is "Community" stuck in?!

'Community'

COMEDY. NBC burns off three episodes of the cult comedy to end Season 3. At 8 p.m., the study group makes a high-stakes (video game) play to aid Pierce in receiving his inheritance. Then at 9, the group attempts to wrestle control of Greendale from Chang, who has taken over the campus with "The Dictator"-like flair. Finally at 9:30, Jeff faces off against an old law firm foe when Shirley and Pierce go to "Greendale Summer Fun Court" over a disagreement about their sandwich shop. Season finale, 8 p.m., NBC

'Grey's Anatomy'

DRAMA. Yes, yes, this melodrama takes place in a hospital. But does every season finale really have to be about the doctors finding themselves in a life-threatening situation? Season finale, 9 p.m., ABC

'Person of Interest'

DRAMA. The name of a psychologist with a high-powered clientele pops up, but maybe Finch and Reese should be more concerned with the state of The Machine, considering the finale is titled "Firewall." Season finale, 9 p.m., CBS

'Scandal'

Alzheimer's Research Study

Current treatment options for Alzheimer's disease may help with symptoms, but they do not work to stop the disease from developing or from getting worse over time.

Study 3133K1-3000 is evaluating an investigational medication to see if it safely and effectively slows the progression of Alzheimer's disease.

Men and women with Alzheimer's disease may be eligible for the study if they:

- Are 50 to 88 years of age
- Are able to have an MRI scan
- Have a caregiver who can come to all clinic visits

"Finding someone that you are going to love one day at a time for the rest of your life isn't something you can hunt down and kill. You need to operate in the part that's kind of beyond what you can control." MCMILLAN

Hey ladies, want to know why you can't seem to find a long-term relationship? Tracy McMillan has some choice words for you. She says it's either because you're a b—, a slut, a mess, a liar, selfish, not good enough, crazy, shallow or godless.

But before you get up in arms over these accusations, know that what she means isn't as harsh as those pronouncements sound. For example, by saying "you're not good enough" McMillan explains that it's a woman's negative attitude about herself that allows her to accept poor treatment from men. She adds that, "A lot of people go looking for in a partner something that they don't even realize that they believe is missing in themselves."

But the extreme nature of the bullet points of McMillan's message did make her original Huffington Post essay, "Why You're Not Married," set the record number of page views for the site since it was posted in February 2011. McMillan's straight talk about how women can sabotage their own relationships is the kind of sage wisdom most dating books avoid.

"Finding someone that you are going to love one day at a time for the rest of your life isn't something you can hunt down and kill," McMillan says. "You need to operate in the part that's kind of beyond what you can control. What that means to me is that he may not look like what he's supposed to look like or have the job you think he's supposed to have. What you need could be very different from what you think you want, and I feel like a lot of dating advice books don't speak to that."

McMillan explains that love is work — "the ultimate yoga" — and that it's about examining our own behaviors before blaming the dating market.

"It's not easy to love another person because we're all really flawed, but I think if you can learn how to love yourself with your own flaws and work at making yourself better. You can also love another person and create a space for them to make themselves better," she says.

► Author and television writer Tracy McMillan tells it like it is.

Where does McMillan get all this great advice from? Being married three times. She freely admits that she's made every mistake in the book, but all that experience has sharpened her sensibilities when it comes to dating.

On the US deficit: Party politics rule

RE: "DEFICIT DISTORTIONS AT HEART OF GOP AGENDA": Brayden Simms was right on target today. Romney and Paul Ryan moan about the debt, but propose budgets with large tax cuts and no additional income, just mysterious "cuts." Boehner is trying to ride the Tea Party and so is forcing another debt limit debacle. The RNC with its foolish head Reince Priebus attack Obama for trying to save the economy that the Republicans broke. And I mean broke! Besides the $5 trillion W. Bush rang up, he left another $1-trillion-plus as a gift to the new president. KEVIN DOWD, VIA E-MAIL

It was good to read Brayden Simms' column today since he just came right out and said it in plain English. To quote just a sentence or two that sum it up: "Republicans distort facts to destroy the Obama presidency"; and "Our current debt burden can be directly traced back to George W. Bush." That's it. You can't go to war, maintain a big country's infrastructure and keep the social contract but also cut your big donors' taxes, both individual and corporate. PAUL SIMONS, VIA E-MAIL

Sorry, Mr. Simms, but you can't refute history. This year President Obama raised the debt ceiling another $1.2 trillion. When Obama was inaugurated on Jan. 20, 2009, our national debt stood at $10.6 trillion. Under Obama, the national debt has increased $6.6 trillion to date. It took former President Bush eight years to increase the national debt by $4.8 trillion. Under Obama our national debt stands at $16.4 trillion. Obama has the dubious distinction of raising our national debt by $5.6 trillion. Americans are fearful of what could take place under a lame-duck Obama second term and are looking for an alternative. LARRY PENNER, GREAT NECK

Equality challenge among persecuted

RE: "AS US HISTORY TURNS, CONSENSUS A DREAM": Some people need refresher courses in history. Homosexuals have been persecuted since the beginning of "civilized" society. Homosexuals died in Nazi concentration camps. Homosexuals die terrible, violent deaths every year, in every country. Have we really so little compassion for our fellow men and women that we can say "My suffering is worse than your suffering?" The selfish, hateful attitudes displayed in these letters have been heartbreaking. KAREN ABRAMS, VIA E-MAIL

Remember, the Golden Rule does not end with "except people you don't like." TIM MALLOY, VIA E-MAIL

May the blacks who are in opposition of gay marriage be reminded that the Bible was also used in justifying their very enslavement. MARK HARDISON, VIA E-MAIL

Until you can show empathy, you are the hated becoming the hater. MIKE LONG, VIA E-MAIL

It is selfish and hypocritical to want people to recognize one group's struggles and not the others. STEVEN JAMES, VIA E-MAIL

Black people such as myself do not have the monopoly on being an oppressed minority. LYNN GIBSON, VIA E-MAIL

Pat LaFrieda makes 'High Steaks' TV

► Pat LaFrieda is a fourth-generation butcher ► With new show 'Meat Men,' he's becoming a first-generation reality TV star ► That steak you're enjoying? ► Chances are it came from him

Seventeen years ago, Pat LaFrieda hung up his stockbroker's suit, put on an apron and became the fourth generation of his family to spend his nights in a freezer full of meat. Now, more than 500 of New York's top restaurants depend on the LaFrieda family for their meat, poultry and artisanal burgers. With the decision to create "Meat Men," a reality TV show about the business, the pressure to impress is higher than ever.

Your great-grandfather, the first Pat LaFrieda, founded the company in 1922. Did you always plan to work in the business?

Not really, no. I was a stockbroker on Wall Street, and I truly hated it. I went to my dad and said I'm considering working full-time at the company to grow it. You could tell he wasn't so happy about that. He said, "You're going to be rubbing pennies together!" At first I was getting up at 3 a.m. to prepare orders, then jumping in the van to make deliveries, then changing into a suit between lunch and dinner to solicit new clients.

Obviously, your dad has seen that it worked out. What is challenging about working with him?

Working in the family business is tough, and anyone who's had that experience would understand. My dad led the course for so many years, but we still have this tension between us about how to get something ► Pat LaFrieda shows off the burgers that his family's business supplies to more than 500 New York-area restaurants.

Q&A

You work overnight in a 35-degree freezer, slicing and cutting. What's the most rewarding part of your job?

► We're a small business, and I really like the fact that we have helped other small businesses flourish. My favorite restaurants are the small ones, where the chef/owner is still in the kitchen. Seeing the restaurants as busy as they are, even in this economy, and seeing their customers happy with the meals they eat—that's the most gratifying part of my job.

done. But the best part of my day is at 3:30 a.m. when he walks in that door—I feel so much safer.

What's it like add the pressure of a reality TV show to the tight schedule?

We already work long days, and it's even tougher with a crew of sometimes 20 camera people following you. You're trying to get all your trucks out and restaurants supplied, but Big Brother is over your shoulder. One of the most gratifying things about this show is seeing my dad on TV. He's a guy who's always stood behind the scenes; it's our culture and the way we were brought up. My dad was always skeptical that people wouldn't care where the meat came from, and now that they do care it blows his mind.

Where does the meat come from?

We predominantly source our meat from Wichita, Kansas—it's 100% Black Angus cattle. The harvesting facility was the only one built from the ground up by Temple Grandin [the animal rights activist] and that really comes out in the product.

What is your favorite meal?

My favorite type of meat is lamb, so I really like a boneless lamb loin with the belly of the lamb wrapped around the underside of the eye, rolled in a thick mustard and then rolled in breadcrumbs and roasted. That's my all-time favorite dish.

Get a taste of lower Manhattan

► Googa-what? ► The 18th Taste of Tribeca kicks off this weekend ► Proceeds to benefit local schools

Shut out of The Great GoogaMooga? Not to worry. The 18th annual Taste of Tribeca festival promises a culinary celebration to rival that of the Brooklyn rookie.

The ever-growing festival, which started in 1994 with 25 participating restaurants and grew to boast more than 70 this year, highlights the area's eclectic cuisine. Proceeds benefit the arts programs of two local public schools, PS 150 and PS 234.

"Taste of Tribeca now has over 70 restaurants participating, which shows both the culinary growth in the neighborhood and the way the community has come together, in support of its public schools," says Faith Paris, Taste of Tribeca co-chair.

So how does it work? Participating restaurants donate 1,000 samples for free. "They're incredibly generous," Paris says. "We're so appreciative to the restaurants and chefs for donating their time and expertise. ... It's a community event even people outside the neighborhood are excited for."

There's something for everyone at the festival, from food and wine tastings, a cook-off between master chefs and a Kid's Zone offering all-day activities for little ones.

The festival runs from 11:30 a.m. until 3 p.m., but Paris recommends getting there as soon as doors open. "Get to your favorites early," she says.

► Walker's pulled-pork sandwiches, a crowd fave, will be available.

► Grandaisy Bakery is serving Roman-style pizza.

"Some samples are gone very quickly." She recommends making a beeline for Walker's pulled-pork sandwiches.

Other participating restaurants include Grandaisy Bakery, Kutsher's Tribeca and neighborhood mainstay Tribeca Grill.

General Admission is $50 and includes six tastings.

► Kutsher's Tribeca's pastrami-taming slaw is on Saturday's menu.

► Sample sweet offerings from Billy's Bakery.

In the news

Ewing interview

Former Knicks center Patrick Ewing will get the chance to sell himself as head coach of the Bobcats tomorrow, according to ESPN.

Ewing, currently an assistant coach with the Magic, will interview with his old nemesis and current friend Michael Jordan. Jordan owns the Bobcats.

St. John's assistant coach Mike Dunlap will interview today. Dunlap was an assistant for the Nuggets from 2006-08.

In the world of the NHL play-offs, cryptic messages are king.

It's nothing new for Rangers coach John Tortorella to say more or less nothing in his pre- and postgame press conferences, but now Devils coach Peter DeBoer is doing the same.

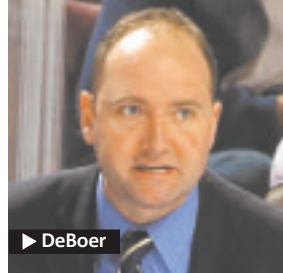

DeBoer tap-danced around questions about lineup changes during his press availability yesterday morning at the Pruden-and there were indications that Peter Harrold would replace Adam Larsson on defense.

Yet DeBoer would not commit to anything when asked for his rationale.

"I'm not even sure we're going to start with those combinations. It's just how we decided to skate this morning," DeBoer said of the presumed top-line trio. Of the Harrold-for-Larsson switch, DeBoer said, "We have the luxury of some depth on defense here and we've got guys that bring different strengths to the table. So [Harrold] is an option."

For the record, DeBoer did go with Kovalchuk, Zajac and Parise. And Peter Harrold got the start in place of Larsson. Just don't tell anyone.

Absent captain

Is Ryan Callahan in the midst of a scoring slump? He has six points — three goals and three assists — in 16 playoff games. Yet he has not scored a goal since Game 3 against the Capitals and has not recorded an assist since Game 5 of that series.

"Depends on the player," Rangers coach John Tortorella said in response to a question regarding his philosophy on working with a struggling player. "Depends on the player, depends on the situation. It's a question I can't answer because it all depends on the situation." When Callahan's name was mentioned, Tortorella responded, "I won't answer."

Speak of the Devil

▶ NJ grabs road win to even series at 1-1 ▶ Clarkson scores third-period game-winner ▶ Rangers passive on offense as series crosses the Hudson

The Rangers got exactly what they deserved last night.

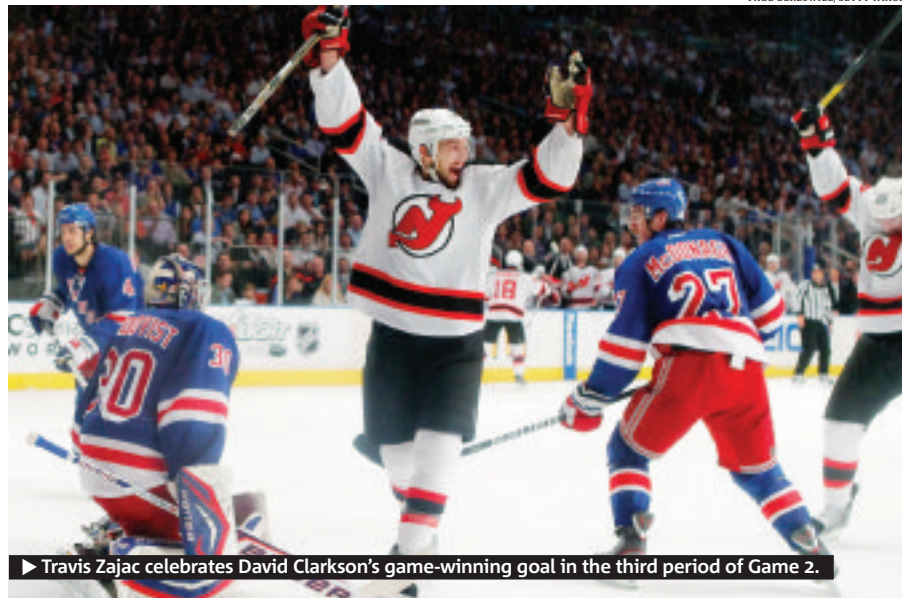

As a result, the Eastern Conference finals are tied, 1-1. The Rangers were a step slow throughout their 3-2 loss in Game 2. The now best-of-five series reconvenes with Game 3 Saturday afternoon at the Prudential Center. The Rangers have dropped the second game in all three series this postseason after winning Game 1.

David Clarkson's tip of Adam Henrique's point shot 2:31 into the third period was the game-winning goal.

Collectively, the Rangers spoke after Tuesday's practice of the importance of playing with desperation. They did not. It was the Devils that were the aggressors, pushed the tempo and seemingly won the majority of battles.

The Devils fired 23 shots in the opening period compared to the Rangers' seven.

Ilya Kovalchuk opened the scoring 13:39 into the match by whipping a power-play wrist shot past Henrik Lundqvist's high glove side. Lundqvist yielded all three goals on 27 shots.

PAUL BERESWILL/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Travis Zajac celebrates David Clarkson's game-winning goal in the third period of Game 2.

Despite their sluggish play, the Rangers did have a 2-1 lead late in the second period after Chris Kreider redirected an Anton Stralman wrist from the half boards at 12:19.

Ryan Carter's second of the playoffs evened the game at 2-2 at 18:09 of the second.

It did not help the Rangers' cause that Marian Gaborik was a non-entity. The 41-goal scorer in the regular season was benched for the first half of the third period with the Rangers trailing by a goal. He was minus-1 with two shots in 14:28 of ice time in the first two periods.

Martin Brodeur had 23 saves in the victory.

3 things
we saw ...

1 Too much Kreider? — It's not a bad thing that Chris Kreider is playing well, but would it kill one of the veterans to step up too? Kreider was again the best player on the ice for New York in Game 2. If they are going to win, they need more Marian Gaborik.

2 Block party — The Devils were apparently serious about their dislike with blocked shots — so much so that they still haven't adopted the mentality themselves. They had just seven blocked shots, while Ranger Ryan McDonagh had eight by himself.

3 About face — After having a grand total of zero goals and nine assists in the regular season, Bryce Salvador continued his surprising offensive contributions. He's had two goals already this postseason and he added two assists last night.

► The Jets say they couldn't care less about the Giants.

Jets not taking motivation from Giants

If Super Bowls were won by sound bites, the Jets would have been the team to lift the Lombardi Trophy at the end of last year and celebrate the unveiling of their championship rings last night at Tiffany's in Manhattan.

Instead, it was the Giants who won two road games in the playoffs and knocked off the favored Patriots in the Super Bowl while the Jets watched from their sofas.

Surprisingly, the Giants taking to Fifth Avenue tonight to show the world their Super Bowl rings isn't an extra impetus for the Jets to redeem themselves this year.

"To be honest with you, I could care less. I didn't know anything until you said something. I could care less. All I know is that the Giants, we face them in the preseason. That's all I have to care about the Giants," right tackle Wayne Hunter told Metro New York.

"You get sick of the guys next door — the guys in New England, the teams in this area. It's already a rivalry in itself so the fact that they have a Super Bowl ring doesn't motivate me anymore and I don't think it motivates this team. We really don't concern ourselves with that. We don't look at other teams."

Much like Hunter, not one of the Jets players was aware of the ring ceremony when asked.

"That's great for them. That is a huge, huge accomplishment," guard Matt Slauson said. "A guy can go his whole career and not play a playoff game and they went all the way and won the Super Bowl; it's great for them. But I don't care about it. Extra motivation? No. At this point we're trying to improve and move on to next year."

● KRISTIAN DYER

Giants get their rings

Back on Feb. 5, the Giants earned their fourth Super Bowl ring with a 21-17 victory over the Patriots. Last night, they finally got to put them on.

No surprise, it's massive, gaudy and worth a whole lot of money. It was designed by Tiffany & Co., with input from management, head coach Tom Coughlin and the captains. It is white gold, with diamonds and 37 blue sapphires on top.

"The blue makes it a little different," quarterback and offensive captain Eli Manning said. "We wanted some blue; the Giants are Big Blue. We definitely wanted to get a little blue to spark it up a little bit."

All four Lombardi trophies (1986, 1990, 2007, 2011) are featured on top with "All In" and "Finish" engraved inside.

"We definitely wanted 'Finish,' we definitely wanted 'All In,'" defensive captain Justin Tuck said. "Those were two things we prided ourselves on, not only during the season, but especially through the playoff run. And we won games that way. So we definitely wanted those in there."

The team held its ceremony last night at Tiffany & Co.'s flagship store on the corner of Fifth Avenue and 57th Street in Mid-

And yes, the Giants players realize it is garish.

"[Former Giants captain Michael Strahan] talked about the 10 table ring," Tuck said. "He wanted a ring you could see from 10 tables away. I talked about the restaurant ring. I wanted one that was big enough to see throughout whatever restaurant you go in and see it from each corner."

"When Tiffany brought it in the last day ... everyone was thinking, 'Wow.' It really captured everything we wanted to capture in the ring."

JUSTIN TUCK, DEFENSIVE END

MARK OSBORNE
mark.osborne@metro.us

4

The Giants are tied for fourth in all-time Super Bowl rings, behind the Steelers (6), 49ers (5) and Cowboys (5.) They are tied with the Packers, who won in 2010-11.

37

There are 37 blue sapphires on the top of the ring. The team wanted to add color, since the 2007 ring was all white diamonds.
